

John Evans, Programme leader of international studies (Osteopathy)
Marjon University, Derriford Rd, Plymouth PL6 8BH.
johnevans@marjon.ac.uk
24/10/2024

Irish College of Osteopathic Medicine
North Point Business Park, 42 A/B, New Mallow Rd,
Cork, T23 C6P5,
Ireland

Dear Kieran

I am writing on behalf of Plymouth Marjon University to express our strong support for the Irish College of Osteopathic Medicine (ICOM). We have been consistently impressed with the high calibre of students that have progressed on to our Osteopathic BSc from your institution.

Our experience with ICOM students has been overwhelmingly positive. They demonstrate a strong foundation in both academic knowledge and clinical skills, which has enabled them to seamlessly integrate into our program and excel in all areas.

The graduates we have encountered possess:

- Excellent clinical reasoning and diagnostic skills: They exhibit a comprehensive understanding of osteopathic principles and their application in patient care.
- Strong practical competencies: They are adept at performing osteopathic techniques with confidence and proficiency.
- A professional and patient-centred approach: They demonstrate excellent communication and interpersonal skills, fostering positive relationships with patients and colleagues.

We believe that the Irish College of Osteopathic Medicine provides an exceptional educational experience, producing graduates who are well-prepared to make significant contributions to the healthcare profession. We highly recommend ICOM as a provider of quality osteopathic education.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you require any further information.

John Evans

Professor Saul Bloxham

Saul R Bloxham

Programme leader

Dean of School, Health, Wellbeing & Social Sciences